Standard 188-2015 Lecture Recap

We have been fortunate enough to have presidential members speak at each of the past two technical lectures! On November 16th, Tom Watson spoke on the topic of Legionella prevention, and we appreciate him educating our members on this critical issue for building owners, operators, application engineers and designers. Here are some of the takeaways in case you missed it:

There are an estimated 8,000 to 18,000 cases of Legionella in the United States each year. An estimated 10% of cases are fatal.

Those most at risk are the elderly, dialysis patients, smokers and immuno-compromised persons.

Standard 188 is a performance standard which covers implementation of a risk management plan, or Water Management Program (WMP) for potable and non-potable water systems where water mists may harbor Legionella. Buildings characterized by multiple housing units, more than 10 stories high, health care (patients stays exceed 24 hours), medical facilities for treatment of burns, cancer or transplantation, and buildings whose purpose is housing occupants 65 or older are subject to additional requirements by the Standard.

A WMP applies to cooling towers, hot tubs, fountains, misters, air washers, atomizers, and other devices that release water droplets.

The Standard is intended for use by anyone involved in design, construction, installation, commissioning, operation, maintenance, and service of centralized building water systems or their components.

Legionella outbreaks can be caused by contaminated equipment on other buildings by being upwind of outside air intakes.

Standard 188-2015 contains a prescriptive “Annex A” for health care facilities which must be followed for accreditation.

Standard 188 can be viewed in its entirety for free on the ASHRAE website.

The CDC has developed a downloadable toolkit with checklists and other resources for understanding, preventing and responding to Legionella. See www.cdc.gov/legionella for more information.
